

Acadia University is recognized as one of Canada's premier undergraduate institutions. Founded in 1838, it is one of Canada's oldest and most respected universities and offers a liberal arts education that is unique among post-secondary institutions. Academic innovation and a technology-rich teaching and learning environment have garnered the University a reputation for excellence.

University Librarian

The University Librarian is responsible for providing informed, judicious, and imaginative academic and professional leadership both within the Vaughan Memorial Library and across the broader University. As a member of the senior leadership team, the University Librarian works actively with Librarians, Archivists, Library services staff, the Vice-President Academic, and the Advancement Office to develop and extend teaching, learning and research initiatives and to contribute to the continuous enhancement of scholarship, curriculum, and pedagogy within the Vaughan Memorial Library and the University.

The University Librarian, who reports to the Vice-President Academic, is ultimately responsible for the long-term development, care, and management of Library facilities, collections, and services. The University Librarian is further responsible for providing supervision and administration of and support for 8 full-time Librarians and Archivists, 20 library service staff, and numerous student assistants. The University Librarian oversees academic and professional processes as governed by a Collective Agreement between the Board of Governors and the Acadia University Faculty Association; the University Librarian also oversees processes as governed by a Collective Agreement between the Board of Governors and Service Employees International Union.

The University Librarian has major responsibility for developing, supporting, and maintaining an environment conducive to teaching and research excellence and to effective lifelong learning and personal growth for students, faculty and community members.
