

SIM RESEARCH DAY

Friday, April 5th, 2019

Kenneth C. Rowe Management Building, Room 2068

SCHEDULE

12:00pm	Mingling & light refreshments
12:10pm	Introduction (Dr. Sandra Toze, Director)
12:15pm	Lightning talks + Q&A Presenters <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Curtis Martin (MMM): "It Feels Like Engaging With a Friend": Using Interpersonal Communication Strategies to Encourage Science Conversations on Social Media • Robin Parker (IDPhD): Where Research Skills and Knowledge Meet: Qualitative Case Study of a Systematic Review Course • Jillian Pulsifer (MLIS): Systematic Review: Literature on the Science-Policy Interface in Marine Contexts • Amy Lemoine (MLIS): Information Literacy Instruction for Undergraduate Students in Arts & Social Sciences • Tobbi Dyer (MLIS): How Do Communities Make Decisions?: Community decision-making in the context of natural resource management • Pat Crysdale (MEC): Rethinking How Researchers Share Their Data • Merran Carr-Wiggan (MLIS University of Alberta): "They told us it would scare us if we went online": Libraries' roles in serving the information needs of parents of children with serious health concerns • Yan Chen (IDPhD): Using Machine Learning and Social Media Data to Understand Landscape Perceptions • Kate Newhook (MLIS): The Role of Music in Linguistic and Cultural Knowledge • Adrienne Colborne (MLIS): Proficient Use of Open Data Requires These Core Information Skills: An Open Data Community Perspective
2:25- 2:45pm (approx.)	Closing remarks (Dr. Sandra Toze) Further mingling & refreshments